[MANIPULATED] PEPE THE FROG IS A WHITE SUPREMACIST! WIKIPEDIA SAYS SO!

cryptotopus in pepe 8 months ago

Wait...Pepe is a white supremacist now?

Ok, this is absolutely surreal. HillaryClinton.com just published this article entitled: Donald Trump, Pepe the frog, and white supremacists: an explainer - That cartoon frog is more sinister than you might realize

On the right side of the header are links for 'Sign Up', 'Login', and 'Submit a Story'. Below the header, the main content area features a title 'My Announcement March 15 2017' in bold black text. Underneath the title is a profile picture of the author, ned, followed by the author's name and handle '@ned' with a small 'beta' badge. To the right of the author information is the timestamp '2 months ago'. The post content itself discusses Dan Larimer's resignation as CTO and the transition to Jeffrey Paul (@sneak) as the driving force behind development. It also mentions big changes coming for Steemit Inc. and the community. At the bottom of the post, there are several interaction buttons: 'steemit', 'letter', 'to', 'the', 'community', a timestamp '(2 months ago)', the author's handle '@ned', a reward amount '$0.00', a vote count '320 votes', and a dropdown menu. My Announcement March 15 2017

ned • 2 months ago

Yesterday Dan Larimer resigned as CTO of Steemit. Steemit will go on, but I'll be honest... today has been a stressful day. Dan has an unusual history, so while we can't say we expected this, it was a possibility we had planned for.

The truth is, Jeffrey Paul (@sneak) has been the driving force behind development for the past 3 months. While this whole affair is emotionally painful, development is actually ahead of schedule thanks to Jeffrey and of course our amazing team of developers. He's the right person to head development in the interim as we transition into the future.

I won't lie; there are big changes coming. After processing these events, I believe this is the best thing for Steemit Inc, and most importantly for the community growing here on Steemit.com.

Resource based economy.

As network data is retrieved from a computer, the network pays safecoin to the user. This payment doesn't take place every time data is retrieved, instead it is more like a lottery, where the Farmer is rewarded at random. The safecoin is automatically paid by the network into the user's safecoin wallet address that is tied (cryptographically) to their vault. The amount of safecoin a user can earn is directly linked to how much resource they provide to the network and how often their computer is available to the network (turned on).

Farming: an incentive for a crowd sourced Internet.

Safecoins are given as an incentive to users for providing their resource to the network. This resource is their: storage space, CPU, bandwidth and online time that enable the encrypted chunks of network data to be stored and retrieved from their computer. The process of providing resource and receiving safecoin in return is called 'Farming'. Each piece of encrypted network data is stored in a Farmer's 'Vault', a data storage and management location on the Farmer's computer which they cannot read, or access. The SAFE network is designed to self-manage these resources.

Proof of resource.

The resource provided by each Farmer is continually checked by the

To the right of this text is a circular graphic depicting a network of nodes connected by lines, symbolizing decentralization. Below this section is a large, semi-transparent callout box containing a heading "Calculate your savings" and a form field labeled "How many TB?". Inside the callout box is a table comparing storage costs and features for Sia and three other providers: Amazon S3, Google Cloud, and Microsoft Azure. The table includes columns for Storage Provider, Monthly Storage Cost, Download Bandwidth Cost, Private, Decentralized, and Included Multi Region Redundancy. Sia is shown to be significantly more cost-effective and decentralized compared to the alternatives.

Golem is a global, open sourced, decentralized supercomputer that anyone can access. It's made up of the combined power of user's machines, from personal laptops to entire datacenters.

Anyone will be able to use Golem to compute [almost] any program you can think of, from rendering to research to running websites, in a completely decentralized & inexpensive way.

The Golem Network is a decentralized sharing economy of computing power, where anyone can make money 'renting' out their computing power or developing & selling software.

Monero

The screenshot shows the Monero wallet application interface. On the left, a sidebar menu includes options like Dashboard, Transfer, History, Address book, Mining, and Settings. The main area displays the following information:

Locked balance: 78.9239845

Unlocked: 2324.9239845

Quick transfer: A search bar labeled "Search by..." and a "NAME" dropdown. Below is a form with fields for "amount..." and a red "SEND" button. A note says "looking for security level and address book? go to Transfer tab".

Transfer History: A table showing transactions:
